He spent all that day drowsing before. rapidly at anyone's approach; at last I found an exit. Endlane said. It was somewhere else, being eaten up with worry or fear or shame. descents to airy caverns, the glimmer of branched silver in the walls; and as he went on, it was. "I am not a witch," she said. Her voice sounded high, metallic, after the men's deep voices. "I have no art. No knowledge. I came to learn." was nominally in charge although she was older, larger, better fed, and probably wiser than he. Gelluk caught his breath. Presently he said, very softly, "Can you read the runes?" There were other people on the hill, he saw now, many others, men and women, children, living and spirits of the dead; many, many of them. He was terrified of them and cowered, trying to make a spell that would hide him from them all. practice, though even then it would never lose its strangeness. Highdrake's mastery of spells and courtier of the King? Here, now, there's no need for ropes and knots." Where he stood, with a. The tune ended. "Darkrose," he said, behind her in the dark. She turned her head and looked at. For a moment longer they held still; then the night wind blew across their naked shoulders, and over her face, looked closely into her glassy eyes, as though I wished to know her fear, to share it. Archmage himself said, Rules are made to be broken. Injustice makes the rules, and courage breaks. "As long as I like." "He does," she said. "He heals the cattle." either side of the raised walkway that ran down the middle. Several times I mistook the figures. He had been through a long hard trial and had taken a great chance against a great power. His bodily strength came back soon, for he was young, but his mind was slow to find itself. He had lost something, lost it forever, lost it as he found it. "I won't sail my boat across Havnor, dear love. I plan to go around it. By water." He could always make her laugh; he was the only one who could. When he was away, she was quiet-voiced and even-tempered, having learned the uselessness of impatience in the work that must be done. Sometimes she still scowled, sometimes she smiled, but she did not laugh. When she could, she went to the Grove alone, as she had always done. But in these years of the building of the House and the founding of the school, she could go there seldom, and even then she might take a couple of students to learn with her the ways through the forest and the patterns of the leaves; for she was the Patterner. Licky came back to the barracks with them. Gelluk bade Otter goodnight in his soft voice. Licky. "Why would you come to the Marsh?" she asked. She had a right to ask, having taken him in, yet she. "I thought that that would. . . suit you." Hardic, that is a banner of war. reign extended no farther south than Ilien and did not include Felkway in the east, Paln and Semel. made sentences, only lists. You gave up wizardry because you knew that if you didn't, you'd betray it." the other in honour of King Lebannen. "Hello, little namesakes," he told them when he was alone. weatherworking, and even healing, because they held no fear, no challenge to him. He saw no virtue. Ayeth's stare grew more insolent as he watched Irioth stammer. He began to say something to San, but Irioth spoke. His spies had been coming to him for a year or more muttering about a secret insurgency all across his realm, rebellious groups of sorcerers that called themselves the Hand. Eager to find his enemy, he had one such group investigated. They turned out to be a lot of old women, midwives, carpenters, a ditchdigger, a tinsmith's prentice, a couple of little boys. Humiliated and enraged, Early had them put to death along with the man who reported them to him. It was a public execution, in Losen's name, for the crime of conspiracy against the King. There had perhaps not been enough of that kind of intimidation lately. But it went against his grain. He didn't like to make a public spectacle of fools who had tricked him into fearing them. He would rather have dealt with them in his own way, in his own time. To be nourishing, fear must be immediate; he needed to see people afraid of him, hear their terror, smell it, taste it. But since he ruled in Losen's name, it was Losen who must be feared by the armies and the peoples, and he himself must keep in the background, making do with slaves and prentices. "You said I had it," the girl said into the reeking gloom of the one-roomed hut. her ear. Ged too looked at her. Sorcery was practiced by men-its only real distinction from witchery. All we know of ancient times in Earthsea is to be found in poems and songs, passed down orally for centuries before they were ever written. The Creation of Ea, the oldest and most sacred poem, is at least two thousand years old in the Hardic language; its original version may have existed millennia before that. Its thirty-one stanzas tell how Segoy raised the islands of Earthsea in the beginning of time and made all beings by naming them in the Language of the Making- the language in which the poem was first spoken. Doorkeeper, master of the entering and leaving of the Great House. right away."
