Standing in front of me was a girl, perhaps twenty years old, in something. Throughout Earthsea, various springs, caves, hills, stones, and woods were and always had been. man. But wizards carried no staff in those years, and Erreth-Akbe certainly was an unbroken man. She looked at him. She could not speak. She stood up and after a moment walked out of the stableyard, off across the hill, on the path that went around it halfway up. One of the dogs, her favorite, a big, ugly, heavy-headed hound, followed her. She stopped on the slope above the marshy spring where Rose had named her ten years ago. She stood there; the dog sat down beside her and looked up at her face.
