He turned her over to the housekeeper and forgot about her. When he was drunk sometimes he remembered her. If he could find her, he made her stand by his chair or sit on his knees and listen to all the wrongs that had been done to him and to the house of Iria. He cursed and cried and drank and made her drink, too, pledging to honour her inheritance and be true to Iria. She drank the wine, but she hated the curses and pledges and tears and the slobbered caresses that followed them. She escaped, if she could, and went down to the dogs and the horses and the cattle, and swore to them that she would be loyal to her mother, whom nobody knew or honoured or was true to, except herself..and feelings in the Grove, and troubled that any thought or feeling could have troubled her there..of waiting for the destroying wave that only Morred might have stilled, she made the song called.principalities: the House of Enlad, the oldest, tracing direct descent from Morred and Serriadh;.He got up in the icy morning while they still slept rolled in their blankets.
